

One-stop-shop for press and machine tool components proved popular with visitors

UK supplier of press and machine tool components Berger Tools showed its comprehensive range of competitively priced products for design and project engineers as well as toolmakers.

The GN75.6 waist shaped knobs that can be used in hygiene areas, for instance, were on the stand. With no dead spaces, the design shape used in combination with the high quality materials and smooth finish prevents the accumulation and adherence of dirt and facilitates cleaning, says senior technical sales manager at the company Tony Bagridge.

Hygienically safe, FDA compliant elastomer seals, which are flush fitting to prevent contaminant ingress, finish these compact knobs.

The company's latest Standard Parts catalogue has also now been released and is available free of charge from the company.
